

PROTOTYPE DISCLAIMER

DropSmart Prototype Disclaimer

Prototype Placeholder Document

Prototype notice: This PDF is a placeholder disclaimer for the DropSmart website prototype. It explains that the website is for planning, design, and demonstration purposes only. It is not a real service agreement, legal document, live booking system, or official water provider statement.

What this disclaimer means

P 1. Prototype website only - DropSmart is presented as a static website prototype for assessment and design demonstration. - Features such as booking, account access, pricing, petitions, and support flows are illustrative only. - The prototype does not connect to live water provider systems or real customer accounts.	Q 2. No live quotes or bookings - Any cost, installation, rebate, or service information is general guidance for the prototype. - The website does not provide confirmed quotes, installation dates, service eligibility, or payment processing. - A real service would confirm details during a consultation and provider review process.
A 3. No professional advice - The support content does not replace advice from licensed plumbers, installers, water authorities, landlords, strata managers, or legal professionals. - Users should contact the appropriate professional or authority for safety, compliance, installation, and property approval decisions.	C 4. Approval may be required - Renters, landlords, property managers, strata residents, and body corporate members may need permission before installation or account changes. - Users should confirm who owns the meter, who controls access, and who can approve changes before proceeding.

Important limitations

Availability DropSmart availability may depend on meter type, property layout, region, provider support, installer access, and service readiness.	Pricing Costs are not fixed on the prototype website. Pricing would be confirmed after reviewing the property situation, meter type, installation needs, and provider requirements.
Rebates and subsidies Any rebate or subsidy information is illustrative. Real eligibility would depend on current government, council, water provider, or promotional programs.	Data and privacy Data and privacy content is placeholder information. A completed service would require an official privacy policy and provider-approved terms.

Consultation and cancellation

In a completed service, costs and installation requirements would be confirmed during the consultation phase after checking the user situation, meter type, property access, and water provider requirements. Users should be able to cancel before confirming installation or service setup.

USER RESPONSIBILITY

Using the prototype information carefully

Placeholder guidance for a completed DropSmart service

1 Confirm before acting - Do not rely on prototype content as final approval, final pricing, or official service instructions. - Confirm installation, access, cost, and approval requirements with the correct provider or property manager.	2 Use the right contact - Homeowners may need to contact their water provider or approved installer. - Renters may need to contact a landlord, property manager, strata manager, body corporate, or provider.
3 Check documents together - This disclaimer should be read with the placeholder Data and Privacy, Terms and Conditions, and Accessibility documents. - A real service would replace all placeholder documents with reviewed and approved legal information.	4 Report unclear content - If a section is unclear, users should ask for support before making decisions. - A completed service should provide clear contact details and explain what information users need to prepare.
